

I pay every month for the previlege of having telephone service to call whom ever I CHOOSE. I do not pay to have this service for outside companies to call me. I find their tatics to be most rude and unwanted. I do not order anything from a voice on the phone. And should I chose to order something I would make the contact and request at that vendors premises. Any one in this day and age that would give out any type of personal info to a stranger on the telephone is just asking for idenity theft. If the companies wish to be able to phone me then they can pay my telephone bill each month and have the previlege. But until then I pay my bill and it is not for them to telephone to sell me another thing that I do not or will not need or use. I would have my phone service removed from my home. Please do not allow this law to become something of a joke. I appreciate being able to sit down to supper and get through grace with out the phone ringing with a solicitor on the other end.
